TWO MEN ARRESTED AT NO 95 SEVENTH-ST .- AN IMPOSING CEREMONT IN WHICH TWO PEASTS ONE RECOGNIZED AS A MAN WHO HAD BEEN CONVICTED OF COUNTERFEITING.

Acting Captain Woodruff and Detectives Multer and Ackerly of the Fifth-st. station, and Desective George Bagg, of the Secret Service Bureau learned recently of the existence of what may prove to be a counterfeiters' den, and early yesterday arrested two men whom they found there. For some days Detectives Muller and had noticed ex-convicts and supposed ds workers entering and leaving No. 95 reventh-st. They began inquiries and learned that the place was tenanted by Matthew Macnellison, thirty-six years old, who professed to be painter, and their investigations gave them d grounds to believe that he was not only a aler in counterfeit coin, but was also keeping an optum joint. The acting captain joined in the investigation and obtained, it is said, positive proof that Macnellison was all that he was suscoted of being. In company with his detectives then went before United States Commissioner elds, who granted them a warrant, but gave it to the Secret Service detectives to serve. They errested Macnellison early yesterday morning, fter waiting nearly a day after the warrant ras issued for him to return to his home.

They found in the house, also, William Mestayer, thirty-one years old, a professional counterfelter, who has recently served a six-months' term and, in fact, was only released last Thursday. Before the men could recover from their astonishment the detectives were upon them and

A thorough search of the apartments was then made, and the following articles were found on a shelf in a cupboard: Ten opium "layouts," thirtym balls, two cans of opium and a bottle used by opium-smokers, and on another shelf thirty-four decks of playing cards; several packages containing counterfeit dimes and quarters to the amount of $75, plates for the counterfelting of the coins, two packages of blank checks, promissory notebook and seventy-five keys of all sizes and descriptions were found. Mestayer also had a handsome opium pipe and was using it when arrested. In the cellar of the house Macnellison's coal bin was subjected to a thorough search, and a rich haul was the re-sult. Four satchels containing packages of green-gods money were found, in addition to three boxes of counterfeit coins and a book containing hexes of counterfer constants and the names of many prominent men throughout the United States and Canada.

Everything was selzed and taken with the prisoners to the Fifth-st, station, where both men were searched. Nothing was found on Mestayer.

were searched. Nothing was lound of and all Machellison had was a laundry ticket. In Essex Market Court yesterday Detective Arkerly said that Machellison had admitted to him that he was a greengoods man and often shoved the "queer" on jays who came to this city was all for 10 cents to get $1 for 10 cents

Magistrate Mott recognized Mestayer as a counterfeiter whose conviction he secured while he was Assistant United States District-Attorney for passing counterfeit dimes similar to those selzed by the detectives and produced in court.

"I know you to be a well-known counterfeiter and secured your conviction myself," said the Magistrate.

I know you did. Mr. Mott," replied Mestayer, "but, before God. I was innocent. I was only in this man's house because I knew him and had nowhere to go."

The prisoners were remanded back to the Fifthst, station and will be a raigned before Magistrate Mott this morning and later before United States Commissioner Shields.

THE DOOMED MURDERER OF MISS GING BAILS

AGAINST HIS BROTHER ADRY. Minneapolis, Dec. 8.—When Harry Hayward heard the news of his doom from Sheriff Blomberg yesterday he did not lose his great nerve, and at once entered into a violent denunciation of his brother

That's a long time to wait for a railroad train," he said, when the Sheriff informed him that his death warrant had been fixed for execution Wednes-

If you are in the depot it is a long time," joined the Sheriff, "but you're on the track for eternity. You have a good many things to consider before Wednesday; you have little time left to stay here." "I know I have little time," said Harry. "There

"Tknow I have little time," said Harry. "There are a few things I'd like to straightep out, and a few folks I would like to get even with. If I had my brother Adry here, I would take his entrails out and stretch them like a clothesine back and forth through this cell. I'm not quite so mad at Rlixt as folks think, but if my father, mother and brother (br. Hayward) were dead I would be the happiest man in the world."

"Well, Harry, "I have not any sympathy, but I feel where there ought to be some."

"No," said Harry, "I have not any sympathy, but I feel where there ought to be some."

"As short time is just as good as a long time, and I am as ready now as I ever shall be. I had rather following is an extract:

"A short time is just as good as a long time, and I am as ready now as I ever shall be. I had rather be hung than go to Stillwater for life. If the Govbernor would come over here and takk with me I would tell him some things. I've had a good time here, and I will have a good time yet. I have no kick coming. They ought to go back to the old times. People are too soft-hearted now. If I had Adry here I'd put his eyes out and cut his heart out, and I'd have Blixt look on; then I'd cut them up and throw them to the dogs. I'm not made of milk and water."

Turning to the Sheriff at this point, Hayward said: "I have a right to invite three persons in to see the hanging, haven't I?"

On being told that he had, he said: "I'd have the Dalton brothers. Bill Cook and Cole Younger, and I'd give 'em two good revolvers aplece."

XAVIER'S CHURCH.

ART SOLEMNIZED PATTIER HIGGINS

PREACHES THE SERMON. Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, celebrated the Pontifical High Mass yesterday morning at St. Francis Xavier's Church, West Sixteenth-st. occasion was the solemnization of the joint feasts of the Immaculate Conception and of St. Francis Navier, after whom the church is named, and who was one of the associates of St. Ignatius in the foundation of the Society of Jesus. Anticipating a large attendance, the authorities of the church provided that admission should be by ticket only, but long before 11 o'clock, the hour appointed for the services to begin, the church was filled to its utmost capacity. A constantly increasing crowd gathered in the street in front of the church, valuity endeavoring to gain entrance, and a force of police men had all they could do to keep a clear pussage

Flowers and growing plants, some of which were placed on illuminated marble pedestals, beautified the chancel, and a seemingly countless number of candles lit up the high altar. The relies of St. Francis Xavier were exhibited before the altar of the Blessed Virgin, which was also decorated with flowers and candles.

A procession of the clergy was formed in the college, and, led by forty choir boys, who wore scarlet cassocks and short white surplices, they marched by way of the sacristy to the church. At the end of the procession, supported on either side by Father Peter J. O'Carrol', deacon of the mass, and Martin J. Scott, sub-deacon of the mass, came the Cardinal. He was dressed in his official robes, comprising the long red soutane and a rochet covered by a short purple mantle. He also wore the mitre. The train of his soutane was borne by four choir boys, acting as pages of honor. Upon reaching the throne he was divested of the robes, and donned the vestments of the Pontifical High Mass, the scarlet skull cap of the cardinal's gree taking the place of the mitre. With studied and donned the vestments of the Pontifical High Mass, the scarlet skull cap of the cardinal's degree taking the piace of the mitre. With studied ceremony the Cardinal was conducted to the altar for the opening of the services. As he stood on the highest step of the altar, immediately under the lights of the cardies, silently praying for a moment, and with about twenty clergymen grouped at regular intervals behind him with heads bowed, the scene was an exceedingly impressive one.

The celebration of the mass, with its ornate ritual and ceremonies, occupied nearly two hours. The ritual was intoned by the Cardinal in a clear, musical voice that was planity beard in all peris of the church. In addition to the deacon and subdeacon of the mass, named above, the following took part in the services: Father Harmer C. Denny, assistant priest; Fathers William F. Gannon and Parick J. Casey, deacons of honor, and Francis de S. Howle, master of ceremonies. The musical portion of the mass was of an unusually high order, and was rendered by a choir of sixty voices.

At the end of the celebration the Cardinal was ushered out of the church with the same formality that accompanied his entrance. He afterward returned to the church, attired only in his soutane and skull cap, and sat on the throne during the delivery of the sermon. Father A. V. Higgins, Provincial of the Order of St. Dominic, preached the sermon, He spoke on the subject of the foundation and work of the Society of Jesus and of St. Francis Xavier's labors for the society, He said that the Jesuits had done much to reawaken religious thought and faith of the masses, and had infused new life into the efforts of the whole Church by their example. The services of the Society of Jesus had carned for it an enduring place in the affection of Catholic hearts, and had been, he said, from its foundation the most loval, able and successful champion of the Catholic Church and her interests. He characterized as ignorant, stupid, diotic and malevolent the calumny that the Jesuits t

Nothing else but an old pipe was found on his person.

POLICE UNEARTH A DEN. CROWDS ATTEND HIGH MASS. THE TALK ABOUT MINES. CHAT ABOUT PROMINENT MEN

SOME ADVISE TO STEER CLEAR OF THE STOCKS.

GOOD PROPERTIES IN THE WEST, BUT THEY DON'T WARRANT WILD SPECULATION, AU-

Gold mines seem to be more talked of to-day around the hotels and in the business centres than any other species of speculation. Men who a year ago of mines are now gravely discussing the feasibility of investigating these Western mines with the idea of investing money in them. It seems to be a favorite topic of discussion, and if talk always led to action another mining craze might sweep over the country within the next year.

en Chauncey M. Depew returned from Europe ast summer he spoke of the extraordinary speculation in Kaffir stocks, and supplemented his remarks by saying that as yet not an American dollar had invested in these mines, and that when the final cataclysm came the panic would be than after the breaking of the South Sea bubble in the days of John Law. His ideas have since partially realized in the falling off of the stocks, but behind the speculation in Kaffirs there is some merit of value, and the stocks have held on. When Mr Depew was asked about the Cripple Creek mines and the alleged great gold output, he said guardedly:

"I see a great deal in the papers about these mines. They may or may not be as rich in output as they are made out to be, but certainly they are not worthy of the inflated values laid upon the Kaffir stocks. The American public showed its discretion by staying out of these stocks altogether. A mining boom may be under way here, but it is hard to tell offhand the merits or demerits of the part of the country where the mines are. One thing is certain. The American people are not as conservative and slow as the English, and if a minom does sweep over the country it will dwarf the Kaffir craze, for the American people are more impulsive than the English. I do not see that there is any prospect of that now."

There seems to be a determined effort on the part of some men to bring these mines to the front. Already there is talk about reviving the mining exchange in this city. There was at one time such an exchange, but for some reason it died. Now men interested in the mines at Cripple Creek and other mines in the West that are rated as having big outputs are talking of forming a mining exchange to deal in mining stocks alone. This eme may be carried out in the near future. None of the men identified with the move care to come front in the matter until all arrangements

John W. Bookwalter, of Ohio, who is one of the wealthlest men in Ohio, and owns vast tracts of land in the West, said in speaking of this alleged craze: 'There is a saying by an old philosopher that the growth of any country can be traced to two things, either precious metals or fertile agricul-tural lands. California to-day would be practically unsettled if the cry of gold had not led the Argonauts of '40 to brave every danger and cross that great stretch of prairie and scale the Rockies in the quest for gold. The output of gold in the Transvaal country is great, but great as it is, it is not enough to keep track with the rapidly growing | Here follow the details of the contests and some population. England is building up an empire South Africa at great bounds. It is gold that is doing it. Great as her output of gold is, yet England ships gold to South Africa to keep her commence ships go'd to South Africa to keep her commence going. The growth of the country under the gold excitement is greater even than its marvellous output of the yellow metal.

"The Kaffir stocks are greatly overvalued, but there is something tangible back of them. They will shrink, but there will never be a crash. In Colorado it is different. The American people have kept out of the Kaffir stocks, but now these Western mines will be offered to them. They may take the bait. Of course, there are some reasonably valuable mines in the West, and properly capitalized and worked would be good investments, but if people believe all that they hear they will be miseled and robbed. The growth owing to agricultural lands is slow but sure; the quest for gold is feverish and rapho".

lands is slow but sure; the quest for gold is feverish and rapid."

Alexander Shepard, who was once known as the political "boss" of the District of Columbia, and plunged the District deeply into debt, being denounced for his action in laying the asphalt pavements, has open many years at his mines at Batapolis, Mexico. He has a great mine there, and naturally he is enthusiastic over the industry. He says: "I have by strict attention to my work built up my mine until it is to-day one of the best in the West. There are many rich mines in the West, and again there are many pickets which amount to nothing. The public has been bit before on 'saited' mines, and may be bit again. Mining is like every other legitimate business, and must be worked right. If one gets hold of a proper mine at a fair price and works it right it is as profitable as anything else. Then, again, stocks may be linfiated, as they are in every business, and resultant deals follow. Cripple Creek has many rich properties, but I do not know much personally about them."

"IS NEW-YORK A CHRISTIAN CITY!"

The Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters at the Bloomingdale Reformed Church preached the second serm in the series on the subject, "Is New-York a Christian City?" After referring to the meagreness of church accommodations in the poor districts, he said:

To build fine churches for the few and pauperize the poor by building plain chapels for them is a defiance of Christ's spirit. God's house should be built for all alike. These churchless masses must be won for Christ. What are the churches doing to win them? We have too many churches where they are least needed, and not enough where they are most needed. We are hindering each other's work by ruinous rivalry; we overlap the work, waste money, and needlessly wear out the workers. Denominationalism locates churches where they can be supported in fine style. Christianity goes where its saving influences are most needed.

A WESTERN IDEA OF NEW-YORK.

From The San Francisco Bulletin.

A Western statesman, being asked his opinion or New-York City, reflected a moment and then gravely and impressively replied: "New-York has the largest assortment of bicycles to be found on this hemisphere."

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 8.—The question of women preachers was ruled on in the Mississippi Methodist Conference South, in session at Yazoo City, yester-day. Presiding Elder Weems, of the Vicksburg District, reported that the Rev. Mr. Grimes invited Mrs. Mollie McGee Snell, the evangelist, to assist in conducting a revival. When the presiding elder desired the engagement cancelled Grimes stated that God would break his neck if he interfered with women preachers. B shop Iuncan ruled emphatically that the Methodist Church does not recognize that the Methodist Church does not recognize the right of women to preach, but adheres to the doctrine of St. Paul on the subject. Considerable feeling has been aroused on the question in Mississippi and Ternessee, many laymen taking issue with the Bishops Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 8.-The question of women

Joseph B. Foraker, ex-Governor of Ohio, was the city yesterday. Mr. Foraker will probably be elected to the Senate to succeed Brice. He had nothing to add yesterday to what had already been said about the victory of the Republicans in Ohio. He said that it was only to be expected, in the light of Democratic mismanagement. Mr. Foraker said yesterday that he feit sure McKinley would get the Presidential nomination.

A diplomatic life is generally looked upon as a life of ease, and there is an old saying about growing fat in the service. Such a saying may apply to Señor Romero, Mexican Minister to the United States. Senor Romero of late has been troubled with excessive fiesh, and he has been under the care of a well-known athletic tutor, attempting to reduce his fiesh. He has succeeded remarkably well. Yesterday he was in the city, and he looked bright and rugged. Sehor Remerosaid yesterday that he never felt better in his life.

Political gossip is associating the name of J. Sloat Fassett with the Vice-Presidency. The gos sip goes upon the supposition that a Western man will be nominated for the Presidency by the Republican party, and that then naturally the Convention will have to come East for a running mate. Some think Fassett is just the man for the place. In the mean time, Mr. Fassett is busy holding Elmira against the enemy, and says nothing. He is in the city frequently these days, but says that he is attending strictly to business.

Senator Richard F. Pettigrew, of South Dakota, went to Washington yesterday. He has been in the city for several days, but goes over to attend the meeting of the Republican National Committee on Tuesday, as well as look after his Senatorial duties. Senator Pettigrew carries with him the proxy of A. B. Kittredge, the South Dakota the proxy of A. B. Kittredge, the South Dakota member of the committee. He said before leaving here: "I am inclined to think that Chicago will get the convention. It is central, and will doubtless be a compromise. The Western members will vote for San Francisco, the Eastern members will probably vote for Pittsburg or Cinceinnati, and so the votes will be divided up and Chicago will eventually win." Senator Pettigrew comes from a section of the country where the people have had a bitter experience with the Populists, and he is inclined to resent any attempt to combine with the Populists to organize the Senate. He says that there is really no use, and he sides, the Republicans will have a majority by next year.

New-York's apathy so far as getting the National conventions has been commented upon by pollticians. Chauncey M. Depew says that there is a lack of municipal pride that prevents any concerted action toward securing the conventions. A much-sought man during the last few days was W. A. Sutherland, of Rochester, the New-York member of the National Committee, but Mr. Sutherland was not to be found. Politicians wanted to know what he had done to assist bringing the convention here, but, so far as they could learn, the New-York delegate has done nothing.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS-LIMITED.

SCANT SUPPLY OF THE GREAT CENTURY DICTIONARY AND CYCLOPEDIA.

IT IS THE ONE SUPERB CHRISTMAS GIFT OF THE YEAR, BUT ONLY 500 SETS ARE AVAIL-ABLE TO MEET THE LARGE DEMAND

Readers of The Tribune bave been quick to appreciate the value and fitness of The Century Dictionary and Cyclopedia as a holiday present. It is surely a most beautiful, useful and enduring remembrance with which to gladden the heart of any one who loves the best books, as well as to lighten the burden of the student and professional toiler, and lend invaluable aid in the direction of general education.

Since the beginning of The Tribune's noteworthy distribution of the work there has been a steady demand even from points far remote and full sets have been delivered in every State and Territory in the Union. But when readers beein to realize the approach of Christmas and to ponder over their respective purchases for stockings, large and small, there seemed to come a sort of spontaneous suggestion that for a principal gift nothing quite equalled The Century Dictionary and Cyclopedia.

tions at once, and are, on that account, to be congratulated, for it now looks as if those who have hesitated and continue so to do for a few days longer will be too late to avail themselves of the opportunity now open to secure a set of the work before the holidays.

For the late extraordinary demand for the book has been taxing to its fullest capacity the manufacturing department of The Century Company, which has notified The Tribune that 500 sets will be the very largest number which it will be possible to turn out before the holidays, in addition to the large number of orders already under way. When it is considered that each set contains ten large volumes of about 1,000 pages each, even this undertaking assumes more than ordinary magnitude. But the big presser will continue to turn out the beautiful pages, and busy hands will continue to bind them into books, so that there will be no delay about filling orders for this week.

Just now, however, it is about the holidays that everybody is thinking, and hundreds have doubtless been turning their thoughts toward the great Century Dictionary and Cyclopedia, which they easily recognize as the one superb Christmas gift.

The Tribune earnestly wishes that all of these might be accommodated, but, unfortunately, only 500 sets of the work will be available, and these will, of course, go to those who first apply.

The volumes will be distributed through The Tribune Club only, which has been formed as above for the benefit of readers who desire to secure the work, and the directions for joining are as follows: Send $5 as your first payment on the work and Send $5 as your first payment on the work and The Tribune will deliver to any point in the United States, prepaid, the complete set of ten volumes of The Century Dictionary and Cyclopedia in cloth binding, the balance to be paid at the rate of $5 monthly. The price of the work to those who join The Tribune Club is $485 per volume. A nominal charge of $3 per set will be added to cover actual cost of delivery and incidental expenses of forming the club. The work will be supplied in half-morocco binding for three additional monthly payments.

Readers may thus secure the complete work binding for three additional monthly payments.

Readers may thus secure the complete work immediately upon making the first payment, while the balance extends over nine months of next year, but readers must not delay too long or the 500 limit will be reached, the supply exhausted, and it will not be possible to get a set for love or money before some time in January, and the opportunity to secure the one superb Christmas gift of the year will have passed beyond seed!
